Overview

The focus of Camp EGTI is TRANSITION - improving skills to assist with the transition from school to adulthood.

Instruction and activities during the weekdays will intentionally be designed with the goal of increasing skills related to community access, independent living, social communication, self-advocacy, and employment. Topics will include, but are not limited to:

- ◆ Medication, time, and money management
- ◆ Personal and pedestrian safety
- ◆ Dining etiquette
- ◆ Public transportation
- ◆ Social communication
- ◆ Work readiness
- ◆ Self-determination
- ◆ Career exploration

Medication, Time, and Money Management

Campers will work towards increasing independence in the management of medication, time, and money. The use of supports will be taught and embedded into the natural flow of the camper's day to prompt the intake of medications and arrival/departure of scheduled activities.

Campers will receive a meal card in the form of a bank card through True Link Financial. EGTI staff will remain in control of the card dashboard to set guidelines on approved and disapproved merchants covered by the meal card. The specific focus of money handling will include tracking account balance to determine an appropriate spending limit and appropriately tipping at restaurants where one is expected.

Personal and Pedestrian Safety

Campers will experience a variety of intersections throughout the duration of camp: roundabout, 4-way stop with stop signs, 4-way stop with stoplights, etc. While accessing the community as a pedestrian, campers will practice how to safely cross each of these intersections.

Campers will learn about and practice personal safety as it relates to encountering a panhandler. EGTI has developed relationships with individuals within the community who understand the goal of our teaching and activities. These individuals will serve as safe strangers to provide opportunities to practice these skills in a real-life scenario. This allows EGTI staff to better gauge the camper's present level as it relates to personal safety.

Overview

Personal and Pedestrian Safety (Continued)

Campers will also learn about and practice safety-related skills within their camp living environment, the Courtyard Muncie. Staff will teach appropriate use of door peepholes and identifying the knocker before opening access to personal space. Campers will learn about confidential and personal information that should be kept to oneself to protect safety. As noted previously, EGTI has developed relationships with individuals within the community who understand the goal of our teaching and activities. These individuals will serve as safe strangers to allow us to practice these skills in a real-life scenario.

Dining Etiquette

Campers will be exposed to a variety of dining structures requiring different processes. Some dining locations are cafeteria-style where one walks through a large, open cafeteria to physically take what they want and proceed to a central cashier. Other locations require one to first communicate with a host prior to being seated. Some require payment before you receive your food while others require payment and a tip after your food has been consumed. Campers will be taught the proper protocol to follow in each of these environments.

Public Transportation

Campers will have access to and learn about the Muncie Indiana Transit System (MITS) free of charge. Riding MITS will provide them access to activities throughout the community.

Social Communication

Most day-to-day activities require some level of social communication skills. Whether it be at work, on public transportation, eating lunch in the community or the YMCA, or mall, communicating and interacting with others is required to some extent and doing so appropriately is extremely important. While at camp, campers will be in all these environments where EGTI staff can identify and target social communication skills that need enhanced to increase overall independence.

Self-Determination

Learning how to speak for oneself is important as one works to increase their overall independence and build the life they want. While away from home, campers will naturally be in situations where they must advocate for themselves and make choices based on their wants rather than relying on others they have grown to depend on. For example, campers will have to order meals on their own whereas many have always been guided by adults in their life. Campers will get to choose what activities they want and do not want to participate in during evenings and weekends. During vocational rotations, campers will complete self-assessments after spending time learning and participating in hands-on activities related to each vocational area to better determine what job and environment they feel best matches their skills and interests. (Continues on next page)

Overview

Self-Determination (Continued)

Aside from the natural opportunities during camp where campers will be in situations where their choice matters, class time will focus on lessons and activities related to Charting the LifeCourse to keep discussion around their desires for life.

Work Readiness

Scheduled class time will be embedded into the day for a variety of topics to be introduced and taught. Topics will include, but are not limited to:

- ◆ Components of a resume and what is required for each of these
- ◆ Components of a job application and the meaning of certain terms used
- ◆ Review of common interview questions, formulating answers to these questions, and practice interviews

Career Exploration

EGTI has access to employers where a variety of vocational areas can be explored. Students will have opportunities to observe nine different jobs and perform job requirements for each. While students are executing a few of the job requirements during each job rotation, EGTI staff will score them based on their performance. These scores will be converted to a percentage and documented on a vocational assessment that the camper receives.

Staffing

Staff to camper ratio will be 1:5 during the days, evenings, and weekends. Staff will be present until 10:30pm - 1:00am every night; however, there will be no staff overnight hours. Should a camper have a hotel-related need during the overnight hours, there are hotel staff present 24-7.

Visitors

The focus of Camp EGTI is to grow each camper's independence; therefore, campers are expected to remain at camp for the full two weeks. Exceptions to go home for the weekend may be made in emergency cases. Should a student need an item that cannot be mailed, a family member may drop items off but is expected to leave as soon as the drop-off has occurred.

Camper Requirements

Individuals submitting an application to Camp EGTI are not automatically accepted. All application material will be reviewed, and a decision will be made according to space availability and the applicant's skill readiness level required for the environment of Camp EGTI. Once an application is reviewed, selected applicants will participate in a video interview as part of the selection process. Campers will be notified of their acceptance status through the mail. The parents/guardians of accepted campers will be required to participate in a virtual meeting with EGTI staff prior to the start of camp.
